LESSON RECAP

Grandma survived it. Mom managed it. You get to end it.

Ruth came from Moab, a family line with a painful start. When her husband died, she had every reason to go back to what she knew. Instead she told Naomi, "Your people will be my people and your God my God" (Ruth 1:16). One choice, made with help and walked out one ordinary day at a time, started a new line that led to King David and to Jesus. What ran in your family doesn't get to run your house just because it got here first.

THE WORD AT THE HEART OF RUTH

hesed

HEBREW · KHEH-SED

Loyal, covenant love. Kindness that keeps showing up. Naomi prays it over Ruth (Ruth 1:8), and Ruth lives it.

	What got handed down	What Ruth chose
GOD	Chemosh, the god of Moab (1 Kings 11:7)	"Your God my God" (Ruth 1:16)
PEOPLE	Go back to her mother's house (1:8)	Stay with Naomi (1:16-17)
FUTURE	Shut out "to the tenth generation" (Deuteronomy 23:3)	Written into Jesus' family tree (Matthew 1:5)

Peace lives here now.

PLOT TWIST

The law kept Moabites out of the assembly "not even in the tenth generation" (Deuteronomy 23:3, NIV). Grace wrote a Moabite into Jesus' family tree (Matthew 1:5).

you can love where you came from and still take a different road.

THE BACK STORY

Meanwhile, in the days of the judges...

BOOK ID CARD

When: "In the days when the judges ruled" (Ruth 1:1)
Where: Bethlehem in Judah, and the land of Moab
Written by: Unknown; Jewish tradition names Samuel Format: a four-chapter true story with a redeemer short book. huge family tree.

What was going on

A famine sends Elimelech, Naomi and their two sons from Bethlehem to Moab (Ruth 1:1). The sons marry Moabite women, Orpah and Ruth (1:4). Then all three men die (1:3-5).

Naomi heads home and urges both women to go back (1:8). Orpah goes. Ruth refuses to leave (1:14-17).

The redeemer. A new family line.

Why it matters

Boaz is a guardian-redeemer (Ruth 2:20), a relative who could buy back land and restore a family (4:9-10). Many teachers see him as a picture of Jesus.

Ruth's son Obed became King David's grandfather (4:17), and Matthew names Ruth in Jesus' family tree (Matthew 1:5).

SO WHAT?

Your family's story is real. It doesn't get the last word.

grace writes the ending.

SPARK · 5 MIN

What's one family recipe or tradition you'd keep forever?

host goes first.

READ IT OUT LOUD · 5 MIN

Read Ruth 1:6-18 together. Listen for the moment Ruth makes her choice, and who she makes it with.

QUESTIONS · 25 MIN · START LIGHT, GO DEEPER

1. What's one pattern from your family you've noticed in yourself? (No shame here. Just notice.)
2. Ruth loved Naomi and still left Moab behind. How can you honor your family and still choose a different road?
3. Ruth didn't walk the road alone. Who is your Naomi, or who could be?
4. Boaz was a guardian-redeemer (Ruth 2:20). What does it mean to you that Jesus buys back what your family lost?
5. Deep End: What's one thing that ends with you, and what will you build in its place?

NAME IT
Say the pattern out loud to God or to someone safe. No shame, not even for you.

WRITE IT
Cut out a card (page 4) and put "Peace lives here now" on your fridge.

BRING HELP
A counselor, a pastor, or a group like Al-Anon or Adult Children of Alcoholics. Help is strength.

CLOSE IN PRAYER

Father, thank You for buying us back. We name what was handed down to us and set it at Your feet. Build something new in our homes: peace, self-control and faith. Make us safe people, and give us safe people. Amen.
